NYC Restaurant Week

New York City Restaurant Week is among the five boroughs' best food holidays. Traditionally, New Yorkers (and a few lucky tourists) clear their

Broadway Week

January and February are always low tide for attendance at even the best Broadway shows, and in 2022 that's truer than ever. To counter this dining schedules and make reservations at the city's best special occasion spots, newcomers and all-time favorite restaurants for deals unseen the rest of the year. Hundreds of destinations participate citywide, including—for the first time ever—a food hall! Here's the lowdown on the deals you can get at Time Out Market New York.

New York Artists For The Bronx

More than two dozen New York artists like Cey Adams, Crash, Lecrue Eyebrows, BC, Louis Angel and others are taking part in a fundraising exhibition for the victims of the tragic January 9 Bronx fire. West Chelsea Contemporary, the contemporary art gallery that opened its New York location in the Chelsea neighborhood last fall, is hosting the exhibit called New York Artists For The Bronx. The show will open to the public on Saturday, January 29 with a come-and-go event that day from 2 to 6pm and will be on view until February 27. The gallery will donate 100% of the sale of each work of art directly to the Bronx Fire Relief Fund.

Sherlock Holmes in 221 Objects challenge years ago, the industry came up with Broadway Week, a twice-annual half-price sale for tickets to nearly every Broadway production. The name is somewhat misleading: The period in question actually lasts nearly a month this year, from January 18 through February 13—and the twofer tickets go on sale at 10am on Tuesday, January 11. (UPDATE: Broadway Week program has now been extended for an additional two weeks, through February 27.)

Bumper cars are back on the ice in Bryant Park!

One of the most fun things to do at the annual Bryant Park Winter Village is to ride those bumper cars on ice and, as of this Friday, the slick autos will be back for you to play around with. Woohoo! Available between 2pm and 8pm on weekdays and 11am to 5pm on weekends, the cars will be in the park through Sunday, February 27—so you've got a little over a month to have some fun on the ice. You can book your ride right here.

Valentine's Day in NYC guide

The Grolier Club, a private Upper East Side club and society for book lovers, is opening its doors to the public for what is the first comprehensive Sherlock Holmes exhibition in New York City in more than half a century. Between now and April 16, "Sherlock Holmes in 221 Objects," will feature "an unrivaled number" of Sir Conan Doyle's belongings, including four short story manuscripts, a wealth of holograph letters from Doyle to friends, colleagues, and well-wishers, an idea book of his private musings, including a calendar note where he wrote "killed Holmes" on, as well as a never-before-displayed handwritten speech detailing his explanation for killing off Holmes.

New York Fashion Week 2022 guide

Fashion Week 2022 (NYC's edition—the best edition) brings posh editors, style influencers and shutterbugs to the most extravagant runway shows of the season. Tickets to the heavy-hitters aren't open to the general public, but here's a fact you may not know: There are some designer shows and events you can actually go to. While it's no front-row seat next to Anna Wintour, get your beauty on at the best hair salons in NYC and head out to see big labels such as Tom Ford and Mulberry send their styles down the runway.

Our advice in the meantime? Visit the best places to go shopping to plan out your most stylish outfits for the week. You never know who might be taking your picture!

Valentine's Day in NYC can be so romantic! It's one of the biggest NYC events in February so, of course, the city offers a bevy of options, including enjoying a decadent dinner from one of the best NYC restaurants and a number of performances from stand-up to burlesque. You could also go for a romantic walk together or put on some of the sexiest songs ever made. Conversely, if you're nursing a broken heart, curl up with a bottle of wine and the best breakup songs of all time or enjoy a night in, watching the best sex scenes in movies and TV shows.

The Orchid Show

The Orchid Show at The New York Botanical Garden will transport visitors into a dreamy kaleidoscope of colors with designs by floral designer Jeff Leatham. Every year, the Orchid Show exhibits thousands of species of beautiful blossoming orchids and it's one of the best NYC events in February and one of the best things to do in The Bronx. Macy's has its Flower Show, which is worth seeing in its own right, but the NYBG's orchid show has been running for 19 years and has only gotten better.

Dante Winter House Pop-Up

The best bar in North America (2019 & 2020), Dante, is transforming The Seaport's Pearl Alley into a winter wonderland with an Aperitivo hour, seasonal cocktails and live entertainment within a warm and inviting waterfront setting all gussied up with seasonal decor, greenery and string lights. The pop-up has three separate bars—a coffee bar with pastries, espresso and coffee cocktails—and two food trucks—one serving flatbreads and one centered around affogatos.

The third bar is an exclusive Negroni Bar featuring a selection of Dante's award-winning Negronis that you can sit down at and enjoy one or two of its Negroni variations, including the Chocolate Negroni, Caffe Negroni, Negroni Bianco and more, plus a couple of small bites to snack on. Better yet, you can enjoy your drinks in

The Alley, a casual space with a game hall featuring foosball and other activities, and every Thursday through Sunday night starting at 5:30-11pm, the space will have live music from a variety of musicians, from Cuban bands to New Orleans Jazz quartets to DJs and more.

BUILDINGS AND BLOCKS

There's a new art exhibit in the sky at the Top of the Rock! "BUILDINGS AND BLOCKS" is a new interactive art "experience" inspired by the skyline and the city's many shapes you can view from the observation deck, including three 23-foot towers and 37 black and white-striped pieces resembling children's building blocks. Artists Kris Moran and Martin Duffy aim to transport visitors back to childhood inside the Weather Room on the 67th floor with playful towers of large-scale, black and white striped, toy building blocks that emulate the skyline seen through the 25-foot floor to ceiling windows surrounding the room. Visitors are invited to sit or interact with the freestanding blocks while taking in the breathtaking skyline views of Manhattan.

Inspiring Walt Disney: The Animation of French Decorative Arts

Metropolitan Museum

Before Walt Disney's animation, pink castles, talking sofas, and prancing teapots coming to life were figments of the playful colorful salons of rococo Paris. Cartoon films and artifacts in this exhibit examine Disney's fascination with gothic and medieval art and the inspiration of historical European motifs in his films and theme parks.
