

DON'T LOOK UP — Handbags at the 40th Annual Frederick Law Olmsted Awards Luncheon

MAY 6, 2022

Beyond your basic Birkin.

BEAUTY • BY: SHARON HOGE

There's no question hats take top billing at the annual Conservancy Luncheon, but handbags also weigh in as fashion accessories. Our snapshots caught basic (sometimes embellished) beige and black Birkins, classic Chanel clutches, bedecked baskets, designer classics, treasured vintage hand-me-downs, blossom bags. There were a few substantial canvas sail bags and someone brought a silver hat box. The variety included an adorable lamb purse and Martha Stewart's all-in-one (natch) cellphone and billfold case.

RECENT POSTS

PALM BEACH

May 6

Palm Beach Social Diary. Christine Schott covers the “end of Season” activities still going full steam ahead; looks like it’s not ending anytime soon! Read More...

SOCIAL DIARY

May 2

The International Best Dressed List for 2022 is out and it’s reflecting the times and the fashions of now. Read More...

GUEST DIARY

Apr 29

Tina Brown's got a new book and it's a look inside the Royal Family; HeadButler's Jesse Kornbluth reviews it and we couldn't resist sharing. Read More...

GUEST DIARY

Apr 29

Blair's taking the "reigns" on a lot of our daily problems these days, and the Queen herself served to inspire. Read More...

SOCIAL DIARY

May 5

Yesterday was the annual Hat Luncheon in Central Park, the 40th annual, with several hundred guests, $4 million raised, and those hats to amuse, to tweak your imagination, and also enjoy the good news. Read More...

SOCIAL DIARY

May 3

Busy busy New York yesterday with the Met Gala filling the streets; a dinner for artist Nan Swid; a serious interview to enlighten from NYSPCC luncheon. Read More...